

THIS PROVIDENCE

"KEEPING ON WITHOUT YOU"

Directors: Luga Podesta & Carlos Lopez Estrada
London Alley Entertainment

Our video takes place in the Salton Sea- a small deserted town in the middle of the desert. Our main performance will take place in the ruins of a house while the narrative segments of the video will be filmed all around the desolated town.

This location will not only give the video a very unique look, but it will also let us showcase the band members extensively since there will be no one else but them in this ghost town.

Our main band performance will be inside a broken down structure. There will be a lot of natural light spilling in- giving it a very REAL feeling. much like the Paramore- "Thats What You Get" video's lighting. We will use a haze machine to play with all the natural lighting and rays from the sun. It also helps the feeling of the song by showing a "broken" or "torn" environment".

The structure will be decorated with memories of the past. The majority of this will consist of the photographs sent by This Providence fans of people they have loved and/or lost in the past.

This scenario will become a giant "wasteland" of memories- torn photographs, broken picture frames, etc. There will be vignettes throughout the video of the band members reminiscing...each of them in a different house. There will be key props like couches and tables where we will place all of the fan pictures.

We will then focus on certain photos and show a loose storyline based around the characters in the videos. Please reference: Papa Roach- "Last Resort" video. These storylines will be minimal- girls crying, waiting for a loved one to call etc. They will be more like moving paintings than anything else.

For the end of the song, all of these people will leave and the band will end up alone...in the broken house recollecting on the good times and the ones they love. They will all drop their instruments and walk out through the door, into the sunset. Leaving behind all the memories and embracing what is about to come.
